

INTRODUCTION

During 1906 the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania required that a death certificate be submitted to one of its agencies at the time of death or soon thereafter. Access to the general public was limited because copies of these records were issued to relatives only. Also, the Department of Health searched only one month on either side of the estimated date of death or, when supplied with only the year of death, restricted the search to only January or February of that year. Consequently, historians and genealogists were handicapped in their efforts.

By 1906, the Carlisle Evening Sentinel appears to have made a conscious effort to print information on as many deaths as possible relative to Cumberland County residents.

Eleanor Barr, Librarian of Cumberland County Historical Society directed the indexing of deaths reported in the Carlisle Evening Sentinel by volunteers in 1976, but when she departed, the project was neglected and no more progress was made. Six months later, John C. Fralish, Jr. re-initiated the project and recorded the data from the Carlisle Evening Sentinel on 3 x 5 cards. He completed recording the 1906-1915 data in 1979.

The cards prepared by Mr. Fralish do not contain all the information contained in the original publication and, this index does not contain all the information recorded on the 3 x 5 cards. This is meant to be nothing more than an index to the location of information, not an abstract of the information. In this index, only ancestors and husbands and wives are indexed. Therefore, It is strongly recommended that researchers refer to the original Carlisle Evening Sentinel documents on microfilm once a listing is found in this index. The cards used as a source for this index are also recorded in a microfilm file (provided by Mr. Fralish) in the Cumberland County Historical Society and should be referred to when an article or obituary cannot be found on the date indicated. Hopefully, such errors will be few in this index. One of the advantages of this listing over the 3 x 5 cards is that not only the deceased is indexed (3 x 5 cards), but parents, grandparents and spouses are also indexed if they were listed on the 3 x 5 cards.

Several items of interest to the researcher are noted here. Many people died elsewhere and were returned to this county for burial. For the most part in this index, we listed the "home as that place " where most of their lifetime was spent, except in those cases where the 3 x 5 card stated "formerly of". If the statement pointed to a portion of Cumberland County, then our list will reflect that as home.

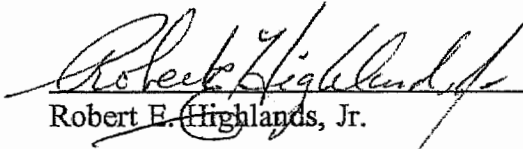

In many cases, particularly for parents and grandparents, a home was not specified. We suspect, for the most part, that these relatives resided in or around Carlisle. By the same token the term "here" was frequently used. So as not to be misleading, we left the space for "home" blank in those cases. In many cases in obituaries for older persons , the "home" listing is suspect because the place of death is noted as a son's or daughter's home. We assume these persons left their normal place of residence and moved in with children to be cared for. In these cases we listed the residence of the child. Many cards listed homes as "near _____". We interpreted this to be "_____RD, Pa. (RD being Rural Delivery)

Obituary Index, The Carlisle Evening Sentinel

The 3 x 5 cards list multiple dates for items in the newspaper for a deceased individual. these dates are noted as "funeral", "resolution", "card of thanks" as well as one or two listings initially of the obituary. Except in a very few cases, only the earliest date is listed in this index. Researchers are encouraged to look at succeeding issues of the Carlisle Evening Sentinel for follow up items or refer to the microfilm of the cards to determine specific dates of follow-up items.

This index is presented to the Cumberland County Historical Society without reservation except that future publications should note credit to the preparers of this index.
